Semi Truck Blind Spot Accident Attorney Texas No Zones Semi trucks have large blind spots, sometimes called No Zones, directly in front of the cab, directly behind the trailer and along both sides, especially the right. A car in one of these zones may be invisible to the driver. Even so, truck drivers are responsible for checking mirrors, signaling and making sure a lane is clear before moving. Many carriers fit side cameras and blind spot sensors to help. Texas Truck Accident Lawyer checks whether the truck had these systems and whether the driver used them. Insurers often argue that a driver who was in the blind spot shares the blame. The firm uses the truck's data and the crash evidence to show what happened and who was responsible. Blind spot crashes are often worst on the right side of the truck, where the driver's view is most limited. Right-side lane changes and right turns are a common source of serious crashes. Many fleets now use mirror cameras and side sensors, and some trucks record alerts when a vehicle is detected in the blind spot. If an alert sounded and the driver moved over anyway, that's powerful evidence. The firm asks specifically for any data from these systems as part of its 18-wheeler accident attorney preservation demands.

Texas Truck Accident Lawyer | 2100 W Loop S Ste 818, Houston, TX 77027 | (832) 250-4888

There's no upfront cost to work with the firm. Texas Truck Accident Lawyer handles semi truck cases on contingency, which means no attorney's fee unless money is recovered for you. The firm also covers the cost of investigators and experts while the case moves forward, so you can take on a large carrier without worrying about legal bills. The fee percentage is set out in writing at the start, and you'll get a clear breakdown of every deduction before any settlement money changes hands. Most truck drivers are skilled professionals who take safety seriously. But the industry runs on tight margins and tight schedules, and those pressures can lead to shortcuts. When a company cuts corners on maintenance, training or hours, the people sharing the road with its trucks pay the price. Holding companies accountable helps make Texas roads safer for everyone. Don't let the trucking company's insurer set the terms. Call (832) 250-4888 to speak with Texas Truck Accident Lawyer, a Houston firm focused on semi truck and commercial vehicle crashes. The office is on West Loop South near the Galleria, and the phones are answered day and night. The phones are answered around the clock, so you never have to wait until Monday morning to get advice.

Semi Truck Accident Lawyer Can you sue if a semi truck hits you? Yes. If the driver or trucking company was careless, you can bring a claim against the driver and usually the motor carrier, and sometimes the trailer owner, shipper or maintenance company. Texas Truck Accident Lawyer reviews who's responsible for your crash and which policies apply, with no upfront fee. Call (832) 250-4888 to talk it through. How do you sue a trucking company after an accident? The process starts with a preservation demand so the carrier keeps its truck data, driver logs and camera footage. The firm then investigates, builds the claim and presents it to the insurers once your treatment picture is clear. If no fair offer comes, a lawsuit is filed and the case moves through discovery, mediation and, if needed, trial. How much are most semi truck accident settlements? There's no reliable average because every case turns on its own injuries, medical costs, lost income, fault evidence and available insurance. A soft tissue injury and a spinal cord injury lead to very different outcomes. Texas Truck Accident Lawyer gives honest, free assessments based on the facts of your crash rather than quoting online averages. Is it worth hiring a lawyer if a commercial vehicle hit me but there wasn't much damage? Often it is. Low vehicle damage doesn't always mean low injury, and neck, back and brain injuries can take days to show up. Trucking insurers also move fast to close small claims cheaply. A free consultation with Texas Truck Accident Lawyer will tell you honestly whether representation makes sense for your situation. How long do I have to file a semi truck accident lawsuit in Texas? Texas generally allows two years from the date of the crash for personal injury lawsuits and two years from the date of death for wrongful death claims. Claims involving government entities can require notice much sooner. The firm identifies every deadline in your case at the first meeting. What if the semi truck driver says the crash was my fault? Texas uses proportionate responsibility, so you can still recover if you were 50 percent or less at fault, with your award reduced by your share. Insurers often try to push blame onto the other driver. Truck data, witness interviews within 48 hours and crash reconstruction help keep fault assigned on the evidence. Who pays when an Amazon or FedEx truck causes a crash? It depends on who employed the driver and who owned the vehicle. Many Amazon deliveries are run by delivery service partners, and some FedEx routes are run by independent contractors, each with its own insurance. Texas Truck Accident Lawyer works through those arrangements to identify every source of coverage. What damages can I recover after a semi truck crash in Texas? You can seek medical expenses, future care, lost wages, lost earning capacity and property damage, along with pain, mental anguish, physical impairment and disfigurement. Where a company acted with gross negligence, exemplary damages may also be available. The firm's nurse practitioner helps make sure every injury is documented. Do I need a lawyer who focuses on truck accidents? Semi truck cases involve federal safety rules, driver qualification files, electronic logging data and several layers of insurance that ordinary car wreck claims don't. A firm that focuses on trucking knows which records to demand and how to use them. Texas Truck Accident Lawyer handles truck and commercial vehicle crashes across Texas from Houston and Dallas. How much does a semi truck accident lawyer cost? Texas Truck Accident Lawyer works on contingency, so there's no upfront payment and no attorney's fee unless the firm recovers money for you. The firm also covers investigation and expert costs while the case moves forward. The fee is explained clearly before you sign.
