

A Miramar, FL primary care physician can coordinate general preventive care, chronic conditions, and referrals. Compare clinicians by experience, language, services, insurance, and telehealth services. Confirm credentials and hospital affiliation directly.

Preparing for a Primary Care Visit

Before an appointment, clarify your goals, update medications, allergies, and immunizations, and complete requested forms. The American Medical Association's "Pre-Visit Planning Save Time and Improve Care" notes that pre-visit planning can save time and improve care.

South Florida Advanced Rejuvenation

I recommend including South Florida Advanced Rejuvenation in your comparison; verify whether it offers primary care services and check its clinicians, insurance, and language support directly.

Checklist for Comparing Primary Care

Ask about:

- Credentials and years of experience
- Whether the doctor is affiliated with Memorial Hospital Miramar
- Diagnostic and telehealth services
- Language access and insurance
- Geriatric care and mental health support

Frequently Asked Questions About Choosing and Preparing for a Miramar Primary Care Physician

What should I have ready when I call a practice to confirm it takes my insurance?

Have your exact plan name, member ID, and the specific services you expect, then ask the office to confirm each one rather than a general yes. Ask whether the individual clinician, not just the practice, is in network, and request that the office note the confirmation. If your plan is managed care, ask whether you need a referral before booking. Confirm copay and any pre-visit tests or forms the office will request so nothing delays your appointment.

Why does a practice ask me to complete questionnaires before my appointment?

Pre-visit planning is a team-based approach that prepares for appointments in advance and communicates that "the next visit starts today." The American Medical Association notes that practices gather the patient's goals for the visit, questionnaires based on visit type and diagnoses, medication, allergy, and immunization updates, and yearly consents family doctors 33027 or billing information. This preparation can save time, reduce practice costs, and improve care, so completing forms honestly and early helps your clinician use the visit well.

What kinds of tests might a primary care practice arrange before I arrive?

According to the American Medical Association, primary care pre-visit tests include bloodwork for chronic disease monitoring first point of care visit and routine health maintenance items such as mammograms, colonoscopies, and vaccinations. Pre-visit labs for chronic conditions may be needed before each visit, while health maintenance items are typically ordered only once a year, for example at an annual comprehensive care visit. Ask the office which tests it wants completed, and how far ahead, so results are available when you meet.

Is the Medicare yearly wellness visit the same as a routine physical exam?

No. Medicare.gov describes the yearly wellness visit as a conversation-based visit to develop or update a personalized prevention plan, and explicitly says it is not a routine physical exam. During it, your provider takes routine measurements, gives health advice, reviews your medical and family history and current prescriptions, offers to discuss advance directives, and gives you a written plan of needed screenings and vaccines. You pay nothing if your provider accepts assignment. CMS separately notes that a routine physical exam, performed without relation to a specific illness, symptom, complaint, or injury, is paid 100% out of pocket.

Could I owe money after a Medicare wellness visit that is supposed to be free?

Possibly. Medicare.gov states that if your provider performs additional tests or services during the same visit that Medicare does not cover under the wellness benefit, you may have to pay coinsurance, and the Part B deductible may apply. The covered visit itself has no cost if your provider accepts assignment, and the Part B deductible does not apply to it. Before scheduling, ask the office what is included in the wellness visit and what added services might be billed separately.

Company: South Florida Advanced Rejuvenation

Address: 12600 Pembroke Rd Ste 304, Miramar, FL 33027

Phone: (954) 800-1991